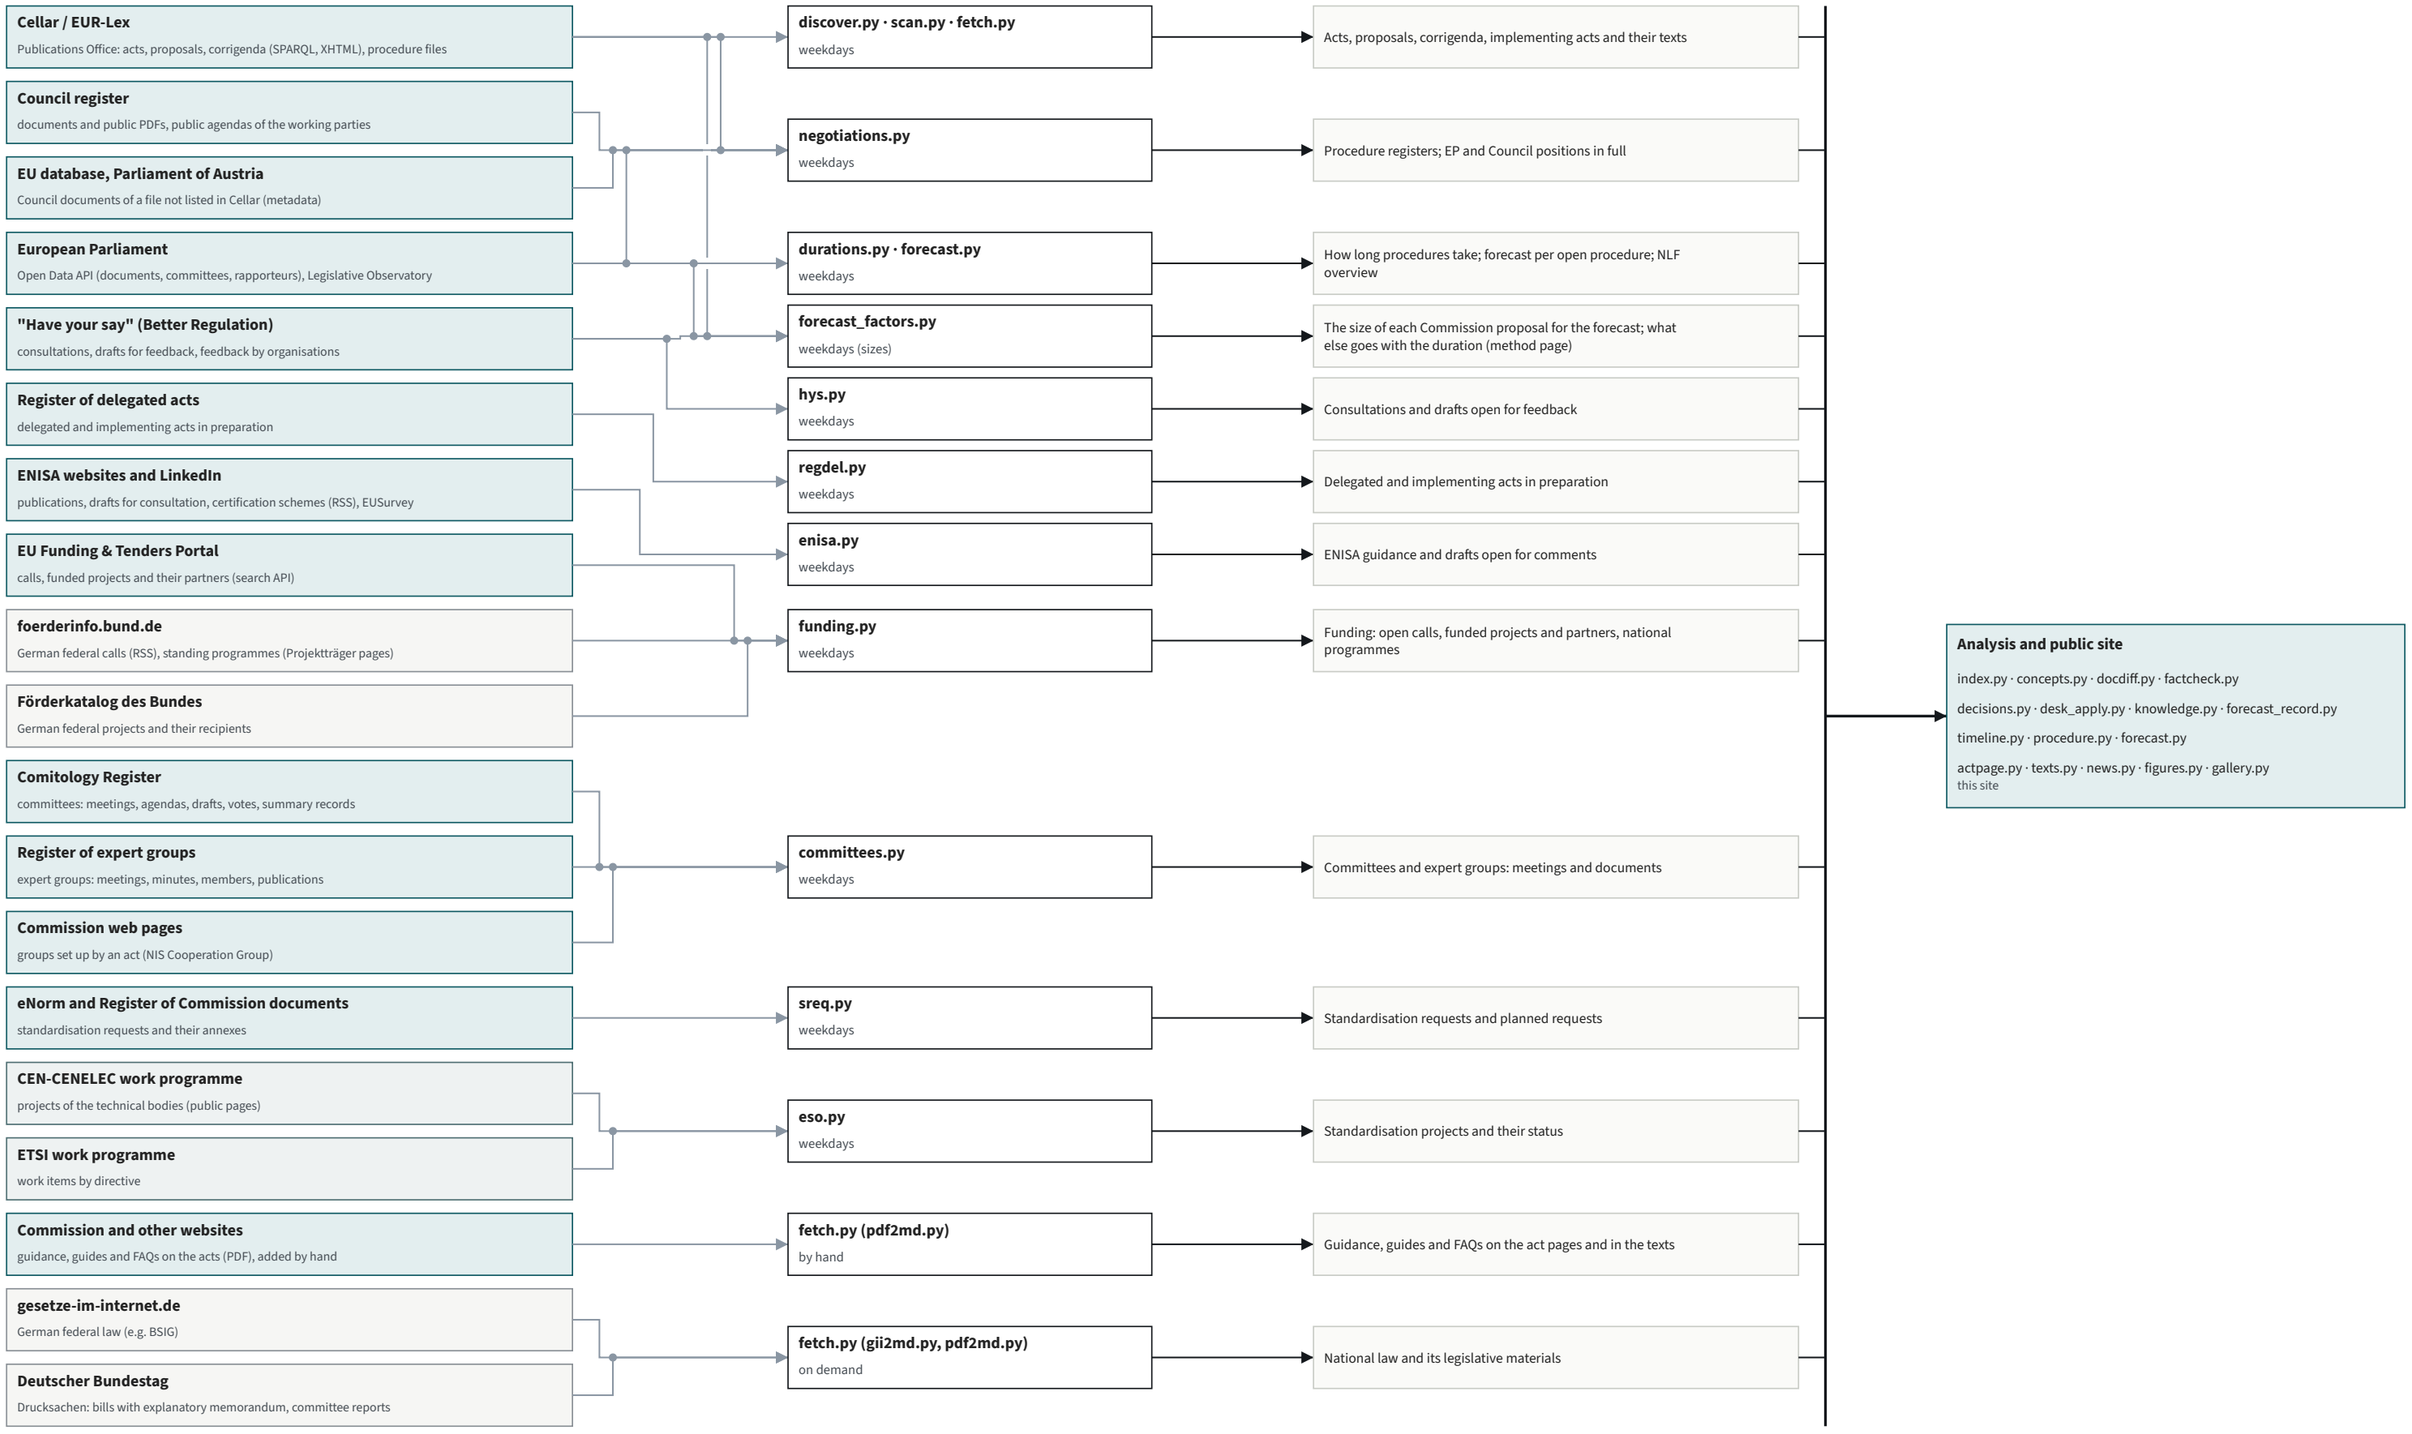
Where the information comes from

Sources (left) are read by the tools (middle), which write the files of the repository (right); the analysis and the public site are built from them. A routine runs the tools on weekdays at 05:15 UTC and merges its pull request once the checks pass; a second one builds and publishes this site every day at 07:47 UTC, after the first.



Built from public sources only; the private sources of the repository are not shown.
